Concept

The 'Dawn' light series is an exploration of the relationship between light and colour inspired by a time in the day where the sun, clouds and sky join to create a momentary riot of hues. This moment is suspended in a unique series of light sculptures, an installation of larger works that act as a continuation of the project 'Voie Light Series'. Playing with the relationship between light, colour, transparency and saturation, the 'Dawn' series utilizes a single white neon tube embedded in cast resin to highlight the subtle manipulation of colour and its intersection with light. New pieces were made especially for the 'Project Rotterdam' exhibition, which are the largest yet of the series. They are presented together with 2 new mirrors from the 'Seeing Glass' collection and will be on show from 13/02/2016 - 07/08/2016. Commissioned by Victor Hunt Design Art Dealer.
